Strand 2: Drivers of International Learning
Presenter	Transformation or Confirmation of Timeless Notions? Abstract
Richard Pearce and Mark Waterson rpearce@inted.demon.co.uk International School of London	Building an Alliance Chapter contact tree; exploring the stakeholders and potential users of the International Education After eighteen months' active existence, the UK Chapter met to review future activities. One project has been the construction of a contact tree. Beyond being an address book, this is a means of surveying who may be interested parties, and what interests and roles there may be that are not yet represented. The Alliance only exists to provide a forum for activities and interactions that are not already adequately served. A wide-ranging review may give a framework for the operation of other chapters, as well as a matrix for future researchers.
